MRS. C.E. FINK

HEALTH OF WOMEN

In this nineteenth century to keep up with the march of progress every power of woman is strained to its utmost, and the tax upon her physical system is far greater than ever.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers few drugs were used in medicines. They relied upon roots and herbs to cure weaknesses and disease, and their knowledge of roots and herbs was far greater than that of women today.

It was in this study of roots and herbs that Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., discovered and gave to the women of the world a remedy more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

This medicine made from native roots and herbs contains no narcotics or other harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any medicine the world has ever known, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value.

Mrs. C. E. Fink, of Carnegie, Pa., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—“I wish every suffering woman would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to you for advice. It has done me a world of good and what it has accomplished for me I know it will do for others.”

When women are troubled with Irregularities, Displacements, Ulceration, Inflammation, Backache, Nervous Prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of her vast volume of experience she probably has the very knowledge that will help your case.

TIED OF GRAFT AND COMPETITION

Tired of the Machine and its Incompetence

Tired of the Abuse of Power and Neglect of State's Welfare and Voters of Kentucky.

ROUSING SPEECH OF WILLSON.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 14.—Moving to intense enthusiasm 2,500 Kentuckians of Christian county, whose zeal for the welfare of their state has obliterated all party lines and differences, Augustus E. Willson gave a splendid exposition of American principles and policy at this place.

In the audience were hundreds of tobacco growers, and it was to them that Mr. Willson especially directed a portion of his belief in the right of all men to associate and organize for mutual benefit and protection, and it was with pleasure that he had watched the tobacco growers fraternizing in this manner for the purpose of obtaining higher prices for their crops and other advantages not calculated to accrue from individual effort.

He did not believe, though, that any organization of that or any other kind should be dedicated to anything but law and order, and said that nine out of ten Kentuckians agreed with his views straight from the shoulder.

He said: "I brook no compromise with the disorderly spirits in any organization. I condemn unreservedly men who shoot into other men's houses and injure their property and destroy their crops. I say this so that the man who don't agree with me may vote against me. I am a law and order Kentuckian."

Refuge for Henchmen.

Pointing his outstretched arm in the direction of the state asylum, which could be seen through the open window, he denounced the management and conduct of the institution under the present state administration as a refuge of political henchmen, where unfortunate Kentuckians were misused and maltreated in the name of politics.

"I speak right here where some of the gravest wrongs and most glaring crimes have been committed in Kentucky. I pledge you that when I am governor that institution out there shall not be a noisy political machine."

Mr. Willson took some of the Democratic machine campaign speakers sharply to task for raising the state cries of negro domination and negro equality in their desperate efforts to dodge real important issues before the people.

He appealed to the sensible men to whom he was talking, as to their opinion of Congressman Stanley, for instance, who has been "eating fire" of this kind for some weeks.

"You men have beards on your faces," he said, "what do you think of the moral and political condition of a man who says that a vote for me and my ticket means mixed schools. Must be beneath the contempt of honorable Kentuckians."

Would Vote It Down.

"You never saw a man, white or black, in Kentucky that wanted mixed schools, and if such a proposition was put to them, they'd both vote it down. This all means, I haven't anything to say that is true, and so I'll stir up all the mud I can find. Usually the man who stirs up mud is the one who becomes bespattered with it, and it is so in this instance."

"Mr. Bryan says that it will be a black eye for the Democratic party if you carry Kentucky Republican. I say that it will be a black eye for Kentucky if you carry it machine Democratic."

What Does It Mean?

Thundering to the climax of his address in a wonderful outburst of eloquence and earnestness Mr. Willson said: "What mean these large audiences of the state? It means the uprising of the people against greed and oppression and the throttling of their rights. It means the same resolution that shook Republican Pennsylvania and swept a Democratic governor into office. It means that this isn't a Republican matter, but a Kentucky matter."

"We're tired of Crippsy Beckham, we're tired of incompetent Hager, we're tired of the tumble bug James and his negro dominion talk. We're tired of Pooh-pooh Haley, we're tired of wet-nurse Hines, we're tired bringing Mr. Bryan to Kentucky to bolster up a flimsy cause, we're tired of a governor, who throws open the penitentiary doors. We're tired of turning over public institutions into asylums for political henchmen."

Tired of It All.

"We're tired of the making of crime into political issues and of all the whole long list of graft and greed and mismanagement and misrule under the ring at Frankfort. It is hard for you honorable Democrats to vote the Republican ticket. Isn't it better to take your medicine than die? Let's have an end to the regime of dishonesty and oppression and all join hands for a new Kentucky."

GROWING CHILDREN

Advice to Mothers of Paducah.

Perhaps the most important principle involved in the care of a child is proper nourishment.

How many delicate children do we meet on our streets with colorless cheeks and thin little legs and arms. It is very plain to be seen that rapid growth takes all their strength and their little bodies are not receiving sufficient nourishment to make them well, strong and robust.

We want to say to the parents of all such children in Paducah that our delicious cod liver and iron preparation, Vinol, will build up delicate children, fill out hollow cheeks and make them strong, robust and rosy.

Vinol makes new vitality, sound flesh and muscle tissue and pure, rich red blood, and children love it. This is because Vinol is a delicious tasting cod liver preparation without oil made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cod's livers, thus combining with peptonate of iron all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, after sickness, and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles, Vinol is unexcelled. Try Vinol on our offer to return money if it fails to give satisfaction. W. B. McPherson, druggist, Paducah, Ky.

THEATRICAL NOTES

AT THE KENTUCKY.

Monday—Mahara's Minstrels (colored).

Wednesday—Beulah Poynter in "Lena Rivers."

Thursday—Helen Grantley, in Clyde Fitch's "Woman in the Case."

Saturday—(matinee and night) Porter J. White's "Faust."

A Clyde Fitch Play.

After witnessing the rather gruesome vivisection of the human mind, last week in Ibsen's "Doll's House," patrons of the Kentucky will enjoy going to the other extreme this week and reveling in on of Clyde Fitch's efforts to tickle the fancy. Fitch's plays have a certain deftness and delicacy of art that appeals to all lovers of the drama for the pleasure they get out of it. Helen Grantley will present, for the first time in Paducah, "The Woman in the Case" Thursday night.

"Lena Rivers."

It is said that Beulah Poynter, who plays the title role in "Lena Rivers," has visited all the scenes of that popular book and has met several of the people after whom Mrs. Holmes modeled her characters.

It is not generally known, but Mrs. Mary J. Holmes wrote her book, "Lena Rivers," which has made such a popular and successful play, around scenes which she actually visited, and modeled her characters after people she knew in those localities.

At the Kentucky Wednesday night, Porter J. White's "Faust."

Faust, a learned alchemist, doctor of philosophy, having reached that age when all pleasures the world contains, fails, invokes the aid of the spirits to give him new emotions, that life might be worth living. In

COTTON ARCHES

VICKSBURG READY FOR PRESIDENT'S COMING.

Elaborate Decorations Line Route of Parade and Reception Will Be Notable.

Vicksburg, Miss., Oct. 14.—Two big cotton arches will form a feature of the decorations in honor of President Roosevelt. One is to be erected at the foot of Grove street, where the president will land in the city on board the steamer Belle of the Bends, which will convey the president and his party across the river. This arch will be most conspicuous to the party arriving in the city on the boat. The general reception committee has arranged to decorate eight blocks of the line of march from the foot of Grove, south on Washington to the Plaza Hotel. At the hotel a second cotton arch will be erected. C. G. Maas has charge of erecting the cotton arches.

The committee on decorations has let the contract for the work planned. Along these eight blocks streamers and festoons are to be hung from the supports of the trolley wires. Cloth of fast colors will be used, so that rain will not spoil the decorations.

PURGE THE PARTY.

A good Democrat is the most desirable citizen we know of, except a good Republican, a good Prohibitionist, a good Socialist or an honest independent voter. He is no whit less desirable than any of these.

We admire a good Democrat; a Democrat who is a Democrat, because, on the whole, that party represents those ideas of government and policies, which he considers surest and best; who insists on his party living up to its ideals and traditions, both in the character of its leaders and the purpose of its measures, and whose jealous regard for the good name and welfare of his party leads him to take an active interest in the organization.

We believe a good Democrat is first a good citizen. He owes a higher duty to his country and state than he does to his party. It is necessarily so, because his party affiliation is but the means he adopts to express his views at the general election on governmental policies, and when his chosen party departs from those views and policies, or conditions change, rendering them unsatisfactory, party allegiance becomes a form of political servitude to the voter and the name an empty sound.

The good Democrat or the good Republican sometimes feels under obligation to his party, as a party of principle; but never to any coterie of self-serving politicians, who from humble estates of the loaves and fishes may have set up for prophets on their own hook and attempted to make allegiance to their selfish interest the test of party loyalty.

Sailors in the navy must follow and obey the flag; but when her crew mutinies and hoists the black pennant of piracy and sails out, not to meet a foe, but to prey on legitimate commerce, must the other ships follow and aid the practical crew in their depredations against the public wealth, or must they turn their guns on the flagship and drive the pirates from the craft?

As a good partisan, having the welfare of his party at heart, sometimes it becomes necessary for the voter to purge his party; to drive out the time servers and restore the organization to the purity of its principles. He owes that obligation as a citizen of the state and country.

When the ablest and most upright men of a party are relegated to private life and men of mediocre ability, of immoral character and dissolute habits are placed in command; when, unable to face a direct challenge on the issues of a campaign, or when in a local campaign, the personnel of the ticket in any particular fails to be representative of the community's true citizenship, and resort is had to mendacity and appeals to prejudice; these are symptoms, which the good partisan may not ignore.

Two years ago Ohio, a state Republican by 100,000 majority, went Democratic.

That result was not achieved by a change of party principles on the part of 75,000 voters; nor was it by reason of an overwhelming influx of Democrats. Ohio is more strongly Republican now than she was two years ago. She is more strongly Republican by reason of the fact that the Democrats carried the state.

The Republican party is stronger and better because certain politicians were discredited and relegated to oblivion and others warned that they must present men and measures to meet the approval of an independent, discerning constituency. Ohio is not a Democratic state, because she elected a Democratic governor two years ago, nor is Cincinnati a Democratic city, because she elected a Democratic mayor. The men, who voted for these two officials, do not consider that they lost caste by exercising the right of freemen. They rightfully consider themselves good Republicans. They were playing the part of good Republicans and patriotic citizens when they purged their party of bad bosses.

Kentuckians have a duty to perform this fall. Kentucky Democrats are facing a crisis. They have seen their old leaders retired and replaced by mere politicians. They see a machine in the capitol, that rotates in office men whose service is tainted with iniquity, and men who have reduced the meaning of Democratic success to their systematic progression through offices, hallowed by the traditions of statesmanship and patriotic service.

Opposed to this system, the Republican party this year presents a man, who upholds the highest ideals of Kentucky politics, and who appeals to the best that is in our citizenship. His arguments are met with appeals to the most ignoble passions that could degrade mankind.

In our city affairs, we see the wheels of the state machine turn cog in cog with a subsidiary machine of local politics. We see a representative from Frankfort, one well known to our people, assuming the functions of pro-consul, to insure the will and methods of the "machinocrats" at Frankfort are carried out.

What does the success of the Democratic ticket mean?

It means the encouragement of an obnoxious machine at Frankfort, which, while it dissipates the state's wealth in perpetuating itself, stunts the development of Kentucky's resources and blights the aspirations of her young men. It means the final retirement of local party leaders, the dominance of aliens in our home affairs and the reduction of the Democratic party in McCracken county to subservience to the ends of the machine at Frankfort, and the adoption of Frankfort election methods in Paducah.

It means that men who have fought the battles of Democracy through many a hard struggle, have been driven out of the party councils. Some of them have been personally maligned, but now they are being scourged into a pretext of loyalty to the ticket, and that by a paper, whose Democracy has been questioned by the very faction it is now supporting.

Isn't there something of this sort brewing? Listen to the threat of a servile party organ:

"A small coterie of Democrats in Paducah, possibly the number will not exceed a half dozen, are sulking silently in their tents during the present campaign, and much with the disposition of children, refuse to come forth into the political family fire-side."

"While not openly opposed to the local city ticket, they have not been heard to express their support of same."

"Another fact that adds its measure of astonishment over such a course is that some of those who now are assuming this lukewarm position, have been members of the Democratic family for to these many years, basking, as it were, in the sunshine of party favor. Some have been given the favored seats at the family table, and been served bountifully of the viands thereon. To them, home has been within the ranks of their party of choice and happiness in doing what they could for this self-same party. Now because the majority of their party has seen fit to bring about the family circle some whose faces are not entirely agreeable to all parties concerned, these favored few must needs crowd willfully down from their high chair at the family table and seeking a position underneath, sulk while the rest of the family looks on in wonder.

"To those Democrats who feel a disposition to come into the family circle we would say you are welcome, the latch string is on the outside, and the hand clasp awaits you. It should be remembered, however, that after a time the door will be closed."

And what have they to offer in support of this ticket?

Nothing but the most malicious falsehoods they can utter against the Republican ticket.

The answer is the Republican ticket itself. James P. Smith is known to almost every voter as a first-class business man and a good citizen. He is, perhaps, the city's biggest individual taxpayer. He was born and reared here and his father's business, which he inherited and has increased, is a Paducah institution. Politics is neither a diversion nor an ambition with him. Public office means, in one sense, a material sacrifice to him. He consented to make the race only upon the solicitation of business men to save the city from exploitation by machine politicians. He promises nothing but an administration devoted to the legitimate promotion of Paducah's progress and the economical management of the public's funds.

The personnel of the ticket is sufficient to allay any fears aroused by the false alarms of the Democratic organ.

Is there not some need for reform in Democratic leadership in Kentucky? Is there ever to be a time like the present to purge the party of its false prophets and save Kentucky from disgrace and ruin?

Some Kentucky papers now are trying to show that Bryan made a tour of the state in the expectation and under the promise that the Democratic machine would support him next year. In view of the fact, that the Kentucky State Journal, the administration mouthpiece, and the Courier-Journal, the anti-administration spokesman, both warned Bryan when he entered the state not to mention the national politics, which he has made peculiarly his own, because those ideas are "repugnant" to Kentucky Democrats, it seems illogical to believe that either ring of the state organization will support Mr. Bryan's policies in the national convention. The consideration for his trip over the state in the sumptuous special train must have been something else.

WHOSE WHISKY WAS USED?

The temperance man who knows or could easily know that whisky is freely used to influence men to vote should, to be altogether consistent, make some effort to find out whether his candidate is directly or indirectly furnishing that whisky. If the men who are leading the fight for a certain state candidate are using whisky to corrupt or influence voters, it is fair to presume that their candidate understands the methods his friends have adopted. If he fails to repudiate such methods he becomes responsible for them. The whisky that is being so freely handed out in Clinton county at this time, and which has been so plentiful for months past, is not being furnished by Gen. Hays nor Senator McCreary nor by any of their friends. It is very generally known who is using the whisky and in whose interest it is being used. It is used in defiance of law and good morals, and it is expected to win votes for somebody, not Hays nor McCreary. Can sincere temperance men afford to consort and vote with that class of voters and vote-getters? Is the candidate supported by such a class of men worthy of a good man's vote? If you are in earnest, my christian friend, look about you and see what kind of company you are in.—Clinton Gazette.

KENTUCKY WORST GOVERNED STATE

In the Union, Says Editor Henry Waterson.

In its issue of July 26, the Courier-Journal, the leading Democratic paper in Kentucky, published the following editorial:

"A Floyd Byrd's reply to Special Judge W. B. Moody, published in yesterday's Courier-Journal, is a telling exposition of the last chapter in a long and successful conspiracy of assassins and politicians to whip justice. Calm and temperate in tone, careful, thorough and crushing in facts, Mr. Byrd's explanation of the reasons that forced the attorneys for the prosecution of James Hargis to retire from the case at Sandy Hook is a conclusive and—to one who may be ignorant of the history of this conspiracy—stratifying disclosure.

"It illuminates Judge Moody in, to say the least, an unenviable attitude. However honorable may have been his motives, however desirous he may have been to do his duty as an upright judge, his course in this case leaves him a record which he will never be able to justify to a fair-minded public, though he spend the rest of his days in the attempt. He may be all that his friends claim that he is, but if that is true he is so unfortunate as to have been confronted with a duty in the performance of which no one could have more completely played into the hands of the gang at the head of which is the man whose boast is that he does as he 'damns pleases' with the law, and who, with the action of Judge Moody in relieving him of this last of murder charges against him, has made good that boast.

"So closes this blackest story of Kentucky assassination and politics. It is a chapter of murder after murder, all pointing to one source of inspiration; of the machinery of the law consistently directed to the end of shielding those indicated by the evidence as the source of that inspiration, terminating with their discharge and the imprisonment of a couple of their humble hired tools.

"Mr. Byrd's exposition of the final chapter of this story, miserable as he shows that chapter to be, shows it no more miserable than many another chapter that preceded it, notably that which immediately preceded it, in which Carnes played his part so faithfully and so notoriously, on which, by the way, Mr. Byrd flashes a new finger of light in his statement. Indeed, from first to last during the progress of this story, every page of it has confirmed the fact that when Jim Hargis—Judge Hargis that he was—sought to create in certain quarters the impression that he exercised special influence among the high officials whose duty it is to punish instead of protect breakers of the law, he knew what he was talking about.

"It is all a wretched and astounding story. But it is not the only story that today advertises the shame of KENTUCKY AS THE WORST GOVERNED STATE IN THE UNION."

Mayfield Messenger's Tip.

The Messenger has a strong tip that the stockholders of the Mayfield Water and Light company, says the Mayfield Messenger, will in a few days be increased so as to include two gentlemen from Paducah, one a prominent banker, the other a successful contractor, and one of our own progressive business men, the head of one of our financial institutions, with possibly one or two local stockholders.

Were Fighting.

Charles Edmunds and Frank Bloat, colored, were arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Cross for malicious cutting and malicious assault. Killed in Fight By Burglar.

Peoria, Oct. 14.—During a pistol fight with a burglar who had robbed his residence of several thousand dollars worth of diamonds, Ed Barrett, a policeman, was shot and killed early this morning. The man who fired the shot escaped. This is the second murder of the kind in Peoria in five days.

Matchless Workmanship.

Most diseases are of spinal origin. That is a characteristic generalization of Osteopathy in a nutshell, and is a contention that has never been disproved.

The Osteopathic diagnosis, and treatment are new and original, and its percentage of cures have attracted wide attention. This is history that cannot be successfully challenged.

We apply in a new way and with new force, old principles that are a part of the recognized, but theoretical teachings of every school of practice, but in an unsystematic form.

You cannot study the anatomy of the spinal column without marveling that it so seldom gets out of order. It is the most matchless piece of workmanship in all mechanics, and he wonders is that it should, sometimes, from the way it is abused, do its work at all.

By all laws of physics, the spine is liable at any moment to get out of order. It is subject to slips, wrenches, resurges, deadlocks, sprains, contractions and congestions—any one of which require only an intelligent engineer to adjust, to relieve and cure.

The Osteopath is that engineer. In just a few moments I can easily explain to you why and how Osteopathy is achieving such a wonderful success in curing all kinds of chronic and acute illness, and I shall take great pleasure in doing so.

Just now you may have a touch of the Fall Ailment, to which we Paducahans are heir. If so, let me tell you how easily, how quickly such ailments yield to the Osteopathic treatment.

"Wireless" to Cross Ocean.

Paris, Oct. 14.—That wireless dispatches between Paris and New York soon will be possible is the belief of French engineers now engaged on the installation of a new radio-telegraphic post on the Eiffel tower. As is already known, Gen. Drude commanding the French forces in Morocco, has been in constant touch with the home government through the direct transmission of wireless messages ever since the present trouble began. Measures now are being taken to greatly increase the power of the tower station. The apparatus will be contained in a subterranean station and connected with the top of the tower.

Kill Off Tenniel by Mistake.

London, Oct. 14.—Sir John Tenniel, the brilliant cartoonist of Punch, was officially killed off this week happily by mistake. At a banquet given at Guildhall to a deputation of Paris municipal councilors who had been visiting London in furtherance of an entente cordiale the menu cards bore a sketch of a female figure representing Paris, which, according to the official description, was "suggested by one of the late Sir John Tenniel's drawings." Tenniel's nephew has written the newspapers that Sir John, though in his 88th year, is still alive, well, and in many ways as active as the average man twenty years his junior.

Scores the Jewish Youths.

London, Oct. 14.—A writer in the Jewish World, who signs herself "A Jewess Girl," holds the opinion that the blame for much of the intermarrying that goes on between the Jewish girls and the men of other faiths, and against which the chief rabbi recently inveighed, is to be laid at the door of the Jewish young man.

It is alleged that the average middle class Jewish youth is outrageously spoiled by his family and, therefore, sets an exclusively high value upon himself which does not conduce to the establishment of friendly relations between himself and the girls of his own class.

Moreover, the Jewish young men are not content to start married life in a simple fashion, and, therefore, usually desire to marry where money is, if not actually for money.

Miss Wilhoit weighed ten pounds at birth, and 99 pounds at one year old. She now measures six feet six inches around the waist.

Here's the Laziest Man.

London, Oct. 14.—Some Britons believe this tight little island holds a record that even America will not dispute, that of possessing the laziest man in the world in the person of one Chilcott.

On one occasion Chilcott was heard to say that he had never done a voluntary hour's work in his life. He was examined by Dr. Wilson, who diagnosed the disease which had attacked him as ergophobia (fear of work). For three months he has been under remand at the Wandsworth jail, where the officials have had great difficulty in inducing him even to move. He is a big, heavy man.

Chilcott was awakened to hear the recorder sentence him, but as the magistrate began to read him a lecture he dropped off to sleep before he heard that he had been condemned to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labor.

U. S. OF EUROPE.

Old Dream Revised by Newspaper Discussion.

London, Oct. 14.—That ancient dream of the peacemakers, the formation of a "United States of Europe," occupies a conspicuous place in the columns of the newspapers here in the form of a long memorandum drawn by Sir Max Waser. Discussing how the countries might be formed into a federation analogous to the United States, Sir Max, whose philanthropy is equally familiar as his commercial activities, says introductory that he submitted the memorandum to all the reigning sovereigns of Europe and "discussed it with those who have granted me audience and with many eminent statesmen."

These influential personages, he adds, almost unanimously admitted that a European federation was the only possible remedy for the evils he pointed out. He was nevertheless forced to the conclusion that none of the powers would initiate a conference on the subject.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John F. Pierce, of the Editorial Staff of THE ELECTRIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a tonic and invigorator. It makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system. He continues: 'In Helonias we have a medicinal plant which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent.' Dr. F. further says: 'The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain in the back, with a leucorrhoea; a tonic (weak) condition of the reproductive organs of women; mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the uterus; menorrhagia (flooding); due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea; or absent monthly periods; coming from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anemic (thin blood) habits; drawing sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen.'

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no woman can afford to neglect the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medicinal properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Benedict Medical College, Chicago, says: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions and general enfeeblement of the system."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root: "In relation to the general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. E. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, says: "Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and convulsive dysmenorrhea (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

CHAPTER XVII.

IN this position Jack slept off and on, rather, dozed into a kind of somnolence from which he awoke with a start now and then, as he thought he heard again the mingled cries of devotion and malediction. At last he slept soundly and awoke refreshed, but hungry. The loaf lay beside him, and with his knife he cut a slice from it, munching the coarse bread with more of relish than he had thought possible when he first saw it. Then he took out another cigarette, struck a match, looked at his watch and lit the cigarette. It was ten minutes past 2. He wondered if a night had intervened, but thought it unlikely. He had landed very early in the morning, and now it was afternoon. He was fearfully thirsty, but could not bring himself to drink from that stream of death. Once more he heard the bolts shut back.

"They are going to throw the poor wretches into the sea," he muttered. But the yellow gleam of a lantern showed him it was his own door that had been unlocked.

"You are to see the governor," said the jailer gruffly. "Come with me." Jack sprang to the floor of his cell, repressing a cry of delight. Nothing the grim governor could do to him would make his situation any worse, and perhaps his persuasive powers upon that official might result in some amelioration of his position. In any case there was the brief respite of the interview, and he would gladly have chummed with the devil himself to be free a few moments from this black pit.

Although the outside door of the governor's room stood open, the room was not as well illumined as it had been before, for the sun had now gone round to the other side of the island, but to the prisoner's aching eyes it seemed a chamber of refuge. The same lamp was burning on the table, giving forth an odor of bad oil, but in addition to this two candles were lighted, which supplemented in some slight measure the efforts of the lamp. At the end of the table lay a number of documents under a paperweight, arranged with the neat precision of a methodical man. The governor had been warning his hands over the brazier, but ceased when Lermontoff was brought up standing before him. He lifted the paperweight, took from under it the two letters which Lermontoff had given to the steward on the steamer and handed them to the prisoner, who thus received them back for the second time.

"I wish to say," remarked the governor, with an air of bored indifference which was evidently quite genuine, "that if you make any further attempt to communicate with the authorities or with friends you will bring on yourself punishment which will be unpleasant."

"As a subject of the czar I have the right to appeal to him," said the prince. "The appeal you have written here," replied the governor, "would have been delivered. The czar knows nothing of the Trozmondoff, which is a strong hold entirely under the control of the grand dukes and of the navy. The Trozmondoff never gives up a prisoner."

"Then I am here for a lifetime?"

"Yes," rejoined the governor, with frigid calmness, "and if you give me no trouble you will save yourself some inconvenience."

"Do you speak French?" asked the prince.

"Net."

"English?"

"Net."

"Italian?"

"Net."

"German?"

"Da."

"Then," continued Lermontoff in German, "I desire to say a few words to you which I don't wish this jailer to understand. I am Prince Ivan Lermontoff, a personal friend of the czar's, who, after all, is master of the grand dukes and the navy also. If you will help to put me into communication with him, I will guarantee that no harm comes to you and, furthermore, will make you a rich man."

The governor slowly shook his head. "What you ask is impossible. Riches are nothing to me. Bribery may do much in other parts of the empire, but it is powerless in the Trozmondoff. I shall die in the room adjoining this, as my predecessor died. I am quite as much a prisoner in the Trozmondoff as is your highness. No man who has once set foot in this room either as governor, employee or prisoner is allowed to see the mainland again, and thus the secret has been well kept. We have had many prisoners of equal rank with your highness, friends of the czar, too, I dare say, but they all died on the rock and were buried in the Baltic."

"May I not be permitted to receive certain supplies if I pay for them? That is allowed in other prisons."

"I can let you have a blanket," he said, "and a pillow or a sheepskin if you find it cold at first, but my power here is very limited, and, as I tell you, the officers have little more comfort than the prisoners."

"Oh, I don't care anything about comfort," protested Lermontoff. "What I want is some scientific apparatus. I am a student of science. I have nothing to do with politics and have never been implicated in any plot. Some one in authority has made a stupid mistake, and so I am here. This mistake I am quite certain will be discovered and remedied. I hold no malice and will say nothing of the place once I am free. It is no business of mine. But I do not wish to have the intervening time wasted. I should like to buy some electrical machinery and materials, for which I am willing to pay any price that is asked."

"Do you understand electricity?" questioned the governor, and for the first time his impressive face showed a glimmer of interest.

"Do I understand electricity? Why, for over a year I have been chief electrician on a warship."

"Perhaps then," said the governor, relapsing into Russian again, "you can tell me what is wrong with our dynamo-belt in the rock. After repeated requisition they sent machinery for lighting our offices and passages with electricity. They apparently did not care to send an electrician to the Trozmondoff, but forwarded instead some books of instruction. I have been working at it for two years and a half, but I am still using oil lamps and candles. We wired the place without difficulty." He held up the candle and showed, depending from the ceiling, a chandelier of electric lamps which Lermontoff had not hitherto noticed, various brackets and one or two stand lamps in a corner, with green silk covered wire attached.

His Dear Old Mother.

"My dear old mother, who is now 83 years old, thrives on Electric Bitters," writes W. B. Brunson, of Dublin, Ga. "She has taken them for about two years and enjoys an excellent appetite, feels strong and sleeps well." That's the way Electric Bitters affect the aged, and the same happy results follow in all cases of female weakness and general debility. Weak, puny children too, are greatly strengthened by them. Guaranteed also for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, by all druggists, 50c.

An Impression.

"Ah, I have an impression!" exclaimed Dr. McCosh, late president of the Princeton college, to the mental philosophy class. "Now, young gentlemen," continued the doctor, as he touched his head with his forefinger, "can you tell me what an impression is?"

No answer.

"What—no one knows? No one can tell me what an impression is?" exclaimed the doctor, looking up and down the class.

"I know," said Mr. Arthur. "An impression is a dent in a soft place."

"Young gentlemen," said the doctor, removing his hand from his forehead and growing red in the face, "you are excused for the day."—Exchange.

MEDICINE MEN

KENTUCKY ASSOCIATION'S FIFTY-THIRD CONVENTION.

About Fifteen Hundred Physicians Expected—Sessions Begin on Tuesday.

Louisville, Oct. 14.—Between 1,000 and 1,500 Kentucky physicians will be in Louisville on October 15, 16 and 17 to attend the fifty-third annual convention of the Kentucky Medical Association, which for three days will hold sessions at the Galt House.

The physicians will convene on the morning of October 15, when Mayor Bingham will make an address of welcome on behalf of the city. The morning and afternoon sessions will be devoted to the discussion of papers. That night addresses will be delivered by Dr. George H. Simmons, of Chicago, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, and Dr. J. B. Marvin, of Louisville. Dr. Simmons will speak on the "American Medical Association," while Dr. Marvin will deliver an address on the "Opsonic Index," illustrated by magic lantern pictures.

The "Opsonic Index" is the latest discovery in medicine. It treats of the resisting power that a person has against disease. It was discovered recently that under treatment a person may be constantly associated with another person who is afflicted with a contagious disease and yet escape illness. This is considered by physicians as one of the most astonishing and important things accomplished in medicine in recent years.

On the morning of October 16 the wives of the delegates and who accompanied them to the convention will be taken on automobile rides through the city and "shown the sights." That night the visitors will be guests at a banquet and reception at the Galt House given by the Jefferson County Medical Society. The following day, the closing day of the convention, the officers to serve during the ensuing year will be elected.

Hard Times In Kansas.

The old days of grasshoppers and drought are almost forgotten in the prosperous Kansas of today; although a citizen of Codell, Earl Shamburg, has not yet forgotten a hard time he encountered. He says: "I was worn out and discouraged by coughing night and day, and could find no relief till I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. It took less than one bottle to completely cure me." The safest and most reliable cough and cold remedy and lung and throat healer ever discovered. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Balloons in Trials.

St. Louis, Oct. 14.—Members of the teams to compete in the international balloon races here beginning October 21, arrived today. Both the American teams came and the English team, composed of Griffith Brewer, who will pilot Lotus II, and his companion, Hon. Claude Bradshaw, J. C. McCoy and Capt. C. Defchandler, who will use the balloon "America," will make trial ascensions this week, the rest one tomorrow.

Commercial Telegraphers Vote to Continue Strike

St. Louis, Denver, Salt Lake, Frisco, Chicago and New York Vote to Go On.

CHICAGO'S ACTION DRASTIC.

New York, Oct. 14.—New York local of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union voted unanimously to continue the strike against the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies.

The meeting was characterized by bitter exchanges between President Small and other speakers. The latter charged the national leader with inconsistency in first claiming that the strike would be successfully financed and yesterday admitting that the general assembly was without funds and with having conducted the fight in a half-hearted, dilatory way. Small tried to explain his position, but was frequently interrupted by hisses. When he suddenly left the hall in the midst of the speech making cries of "resign!" followed him. Last night Small issued a statement in which he said he was willing to continue the strike if the men insisted.

Big Demonstration. Chicago, Oct. 14.—National President Small, of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, and his suggestion that a vote be taken on the question of calling off the strike, were repudiated by the members of Chicago local union. A resolution that the strike be continued was unanimously adopted. The motion was followed by a demonstration of strength by the striking operators before the offices of the telegraph companies. The men marched in double file in the streets shouting "S-T-I-C-K" and otherwise manifesting their intentions to continue the struggle.

Voted to Stick. Salt Lake City, Oct. 14.—At a meeting here of less than half of its membership the local telegraphers' union voted to continue the strike.

Till Demands Are Granted. Denver, Oct. 14.—The local union of telegraphers here adopted a resolution declaring unanimously in favor of continuing the strike until all demands are granted.

Vote to Continue Strike. San Francisco, Oct. 14.—The local telegraphers' union voted to continue the strike.

Don't Want to Give Up. St. Louis, Oct. 14.—Members of the local Commercial Telegraphers' Union voted to remain out on strike.

Small Suspended. Chicago, Oct. 14.—At a meeting of the National Telegraphers' Union President S. J. Small was suspended. The following message was sent President Small by the executive committee: "Under article 15, section 7, of the constitution of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, you are hereby suspended from the office of president, to take effect immediately."

SIX SUFFOCATED

FATHER AND FIVE DAUGHTERS LOSE LIVES IN SMOKE.

Head of Family Attempts to Rescue Children and He Dies With Them.

Gloversville, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Six members of the family of Solomon Frank, a glove cutter, the father and five daughters, were suffocated by smoke when their home was destroyed by fire early Sunday.

The father lost his life trying to save his children following the discovery of the flames by the mother, who with two small sons made her escape. The oldest daughter was to have become a bride early in December, and last night there was a social gathering at the home in celebration of the approaching nuptials. The gathering broke up at 12 o'clock and at 1:30 when all had retired the fire was discovered. The origin is believed to have been due to a defective chimney.

The sculptor was working on a statue of Melancholy. "May I ask what you are doing?" Inquired the visitor. "Cutting a sorry figure," said the sculptor, scowling at him.—Chicago Tribune.

INTO PORT

OCEANIC STEAMSHIP MARIPOSA IS TOWED BY TUGS.

Adrift Without Fuel Off Monterey
She Was Helpless in Pacific—
She Used Coal Oil.

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—The Oceanic Steamship company's steamer Mariposa which was adrift without fuel seventy miles off Monterey, was towed into port Sunday afternoon by the tugs Dauntless and Relief. In addition to her crew the Mariposa had twenty-seven passengers including several women and children on board.

Last Thursday night the Mariposa exhausted her supply of coal oil. On Friday First Officer W. D. Watson volunteered to try to reach the coast in a small boat for the purpose of securing aid and a tow. Watson, accompanied by Seamen J. Wyberg, F. Brewer, E. Jeded and J. Ostefield embarked in the ship's wrecking boat rigged as a yawl. Provisions for last a week were placed in the boat. They headed for Monterey bay and sailed straight for that haven driven along by a fresh west wind until they were about 15 miles off the shore. At 2 o'clock the wind died out but the sailors rowed to Monterey from whence word of the steamer's plight was sent to this city. Tugs were at once sent out. Yesterday afternoon the Dauntless was later joined by the Relief who assisted in towing the Mariposa into port.

STABBED TO DEATH

MAMIE PEARL KILLED BY ALEX
WADE, HER LOVER.

Roastabout From Joe Fowler Arrested on Charge of Murder Saturday Night.

Mamie Pearl, alias Gertrude Pennington, colored, was stabbed Saturday night at Second and Washington streets by Alex Wade, a roastabout on the steamer Joe Fowler, and she died in the patrol wagon while being taken to Dr. J. D. Robertson's office. Two hours after the killing the alleged murderer was captured.

Wade missed a trip on the Fowler and was in town Saturday night. He was jealous of the woman, with whom he had lived since bringing her from the south. He charged her with associating with other men and she charged him with missing a trip on the boat for the purpose of meeting another woman. Hot words followed, and Wade pulled a pocket knife and plunged it into her heart. The stabbing occurred about 6 o'clock and at 8 o'clock Wade was arrested at Denker's saloon at Ninth and Washington streets. The woman was about 22 years old and her home is said to be in Owensboro. She had been here only a short time. Wade admitted stabbing the woman, but said nothing as to the cause.

The case against Wade charging murder, was called in police court this morning but continues until after the inquest. This afternoon at the city hall, Coroner Frank Eaker is holding the inquest.

MAD JEALOUSY

CAUSED VETERAN TO KILL HIM-SELF AND WIFE.

General Webb Syck and Young Wife
Found Dead at Their Mansion Near Pikeville.

Pikeville, Ky., Oct. 14.—General Webb Syck, a civil war veteran with a brilliant record, is believed to have murdered his young bride of two weeks and himself at their splendid mansion in Fairview, a suburb of Pikeville.

Just before daylight a shot rang out in the handsome Syck home, and a few moments later another was heard. Neighbors rushed to the scene, and were greeted by a horrifying sight. In the yard lay General Syck. The entire top of his head had been blown away. A short search inside the house revealed the other figure in the tragedy. Stretched out, face down, on the bed and clothed only in her night robe, as was her husband, lay the still warm body of Mrs. Syck, blood oozing from a terrible wound in the back of her head and another in her forehead, where the bullet had passed out after tearing its way entirely through. The position of the body indicated that Mrs. Syck had been killed without a struggle. She was formerly Mrs. Jane Burris connected with some of the most prominent families in northeastern Kentucky.

The cause of the tragedy is not known, but the shooting is supposed to have followed a bitter quarrel of the previous day and renewed in the night.

General Syck and his bride had just returned from their honeymoon trip through the south. He was a brother of George Syck, of Pikeville, one of Pike county's successful business men and prominent politicians. The murdered woman was General Syck's third wife. His first wife died two years ago, and his second wife divorced him about one year ago.

It is thought that General Syck's mind became unbalanced, due to his quarrel with his bride, as he was known to have been desperately in love with her and insanely jealous. He was one of the richest men in the county.

HERE'S A KICK

COUNTY ROADS DON'T COMPARE WITH COURT HOUSE YARD.

Squandering Money in Town by Planting
Flowers Is What One Visitor Says.

Residents in certain portions of the county think that the county is wasting money away in city improvements instead of spending it on county roads, and a petition is being circulated denouncing the improvement of the court house yard as a waste of money. This morning a farmer had a heart to heart talk with County Judge R. T. Lightfoot, and set forth his views on the matter.

"We want good roads—better roads than we have got; and do not favor spending money on flowers and patent sidewalks at the court house here in town," he declared, "and we want you to spend more on county roads."

Judge Lightfoot explained that he was not personally responsible for the improvement of the court house yard, but that the fiscal court was, in answer to, "how do the county roads compare with the court house yard?" put by his visitor, Judge Lightfoot explained that he could not make a comparison, but would willingly place the matter before fiscal court, and if the board ordered it, would see that flowers were planted along the county roads.

"It is a fact, that some one has been stirring up residents in rural districts against our fixing up the court house yard," explained Judge Lightfoot. "The work has been done several years, and we can not explain to some disgruntled farmers the necessity of beautifying the yards." As to county roads, he stated, "It is nearly impossible to convince some that money is not being squandered, notwithstanding figures that show work to have been done for half price, a saving of fifty per cent to farmers."

Gerontic Talks With Spirits.
Tulsa, I. T., Oct. 14.—Gerontimo, the famous Apache, a prisoner of war, accompanied by his eighth wife and his daughter, passed through Tulsa yesterday on route to Collinsville, where he is to be the guest of honor at the last Indian war dance and pow-wow. The old warrior looked tired and worn, but through his interpreter said it was trouble on his mind that made him appear weary.

Discussing the subject of his visit and the probable effect it might have Gerontimo said:

"The celebration at Collinsville is a religious rite, and not a blood thirsty affair. I will discuss matters of vital concern affecting the full bloods in the new state and their spiritual welfare. The spirit father in the clouds has sent a message to all Indians and I will deliver it to them while the dance goes on."

FISH FIGHTS

MAY DELAY MEETING OF ILLINOIS
CENTRAL RY.

Will Enjoin Voting of Stocks Held by Harriman's Union Pacific for Officers.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—It is possible that the struggle for control of the Illinois Central railroad between Stuyvesant Fish and E. H. Harriman may be taken into the courts. Today the attorneys of Mr. Fish were engaged in preparation of a petition asking the courts to enjoin any person or corporation from voting any stock in the annual meeting to be held Wednesday next, which may be shown to be owned or controlled by the Union Pacific railroad. The action, it is said, will be brought under the Illinois statute which prohibits one corporation from owning stock in another. The attorneys for Mr. Harriman have already declared in view of the possible proceeding along this line that the Illinois Central by reason of its special charter would be exempt from the operation of this law, even if it were not a fact that railroad corporations are by implication exempt from its operation. It is understood that it is the intention of Mr. Fish to obtain a temporary injunction by which the annual meeting will be delayed until the court can pass upon the question involved.

PEANUT COMPANY

CASE INVOLVES AMERICAN-GERMAN BANK.

Suit Filed in Federal Court Against Bank By Philadelphia Concern.

Rosser P. Birdsong, doing business under the name of Birdsong & Company, of Philadelphia, against the American-German National bank, is the style of a suit filed in federal court here this morning by Attorneys Eaton & Boyd. The suit is to collect $2,641.

The petition alleges that the plaintiff bought two car loads of peanuts from the Southern Peanut company and that the first car load shipped was paid for before it was discovered that some of the goods was inferior to contract grades. The second car load was attached by Birdsong, and in order to secure payment of the draft and release the peanuts from attachment the bank agreed to stand good any loss Birdsong might suffer. Peanuts to the amount of $2,641 were shipped back as inferior and the peanut company is alleged to have refused to make good. The Philadelphia firm is now seeking to recover its loss from the bank.
